

NALC Unpublished Grievance Backlogs

Whereas: Backlogs of NALC grievances at the upper steps of the dispute resolution process continue to occur and have become paradigmatic.

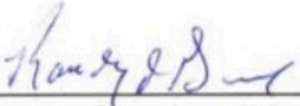

Whereas: NALC staff do not widely broadcast the numbers of the backlog problem to the membership.

Whereas: The NALC maintains a password protected web portal where members could obtain the information, if they so desire, and if it were published.

Whereas: Unpublished backlogs of grievances keep the membership unaware of the scope, severity and nature of the problem.

Resolved: The Montana State Association of the NALC calls on the National NALC to institute a policy to publish, via the Members Only portal on the NALC.org web site:

1). Backlog data for grievances or other disputes being held at Step B and pending Arbitration in a readable and sortable format, detailed by region and state. This data should be available to all members with a NALC.org account with members only access.
